

“The Power of Receptivity:

Cultivating Happiness Through Expanded Sensory Experience”

New Concert and Presentation from World Music Leader

wah!

What is the importance of receptivity?

According to Wah, “In today’s society, when stress is at an all time high, music, breathing and sound can be potent tools for healing & relaxation and maintaining a better connection with our inner lives.

I’ve worked with people around the world, performing for thousands of people, teaching diverse groups, ages and skill levels. I have developed techniques to connect people in harmony and confidence.

My work increases receptivity in people of all states of health and fitness. I introduce receptivity as a state of awareness, a freedom in both personal and interpersonal connection. Natural rhythms, individual sensory preferences (visual, auditory, kinesthetic), seasons, cycles, breath and the body’s inherent wholeness foster inspiration and effortless expansion.”

“Our ability to respond to our world is what makes us human. There is great power in that responsiveness, because it allows us to choose new directions.” ~WAH!

In this presentation, Wah shares with audience members the 12 qualities of receptivity, known as a state of physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual openness and balance.

Wah's audiences experience transformative thinking and renewal through insights and interactive techniques Wah shares that focus on breath, thought, sound, light and other natural components. Her presentations expand sensory awareness and perception, and begin a dialogue about healing and well-being. Audiences leave Wah's presentation with tools necessary to create rich, dynamic relationships and effectively shape the course of their lives.

Wah explores how anyone can be happier and more productive using vibrational forces present in every day life.

"There are invisible forces at work when you respond to nonverbal cues – the smell of food cooking, the sound of music, the invigorating air after a rainstorm. You can use these forces to your advantage to create rich, dynamic relationships with everyone and everything around you. In an increasingly fast-paced and digitally-dominated world, these elements become more vital to productivity, balance and happiness." –Wah!

What your audience members will learn about receptivity...

- Methods, techniques, examples and discussions about how receptivity can be incorporated into your life to reduce stress, increase productivity and inspiration.
- Self-renewal techniques
- Sound exercises
- Discussion of how healing looks, feels, sounds to you
- Understanding layers of receptivity that allow healing
- Consciously enabling receptivity to enhance productivity and relationships

WAH'S AUDIENCE INCLUDES:

Healing Concert

A multi-media concert for relaxation: The Healing Concert uses visual and sonic images of our universe to create a feature-length presentation of profound beauty. Slow moving, calming laser lights and visual projections create patterns found in Nature such as constellations in the sky and Northern Lights on the horizon. Wah! performs live, her beautiful voice, loops, delays, and keyboards gently guiding audiences into deep relaxation and rejuvenation.

The Healing Concert is an event which brings attention to the need for harmony and balance in ourselves and our world. “We are at a pivotal point in history where humans and Mother Nature are out of balance. How can we come back into balance with our world?” says Wah!

One potential first step is attending the Healing Concert. “We had a lot of positive feedback from Wah!’s Healing Concert,” says Francisco Salas, University of Colorado’s Fiske Planetarium Director. “The combination of healing music and lights with the planetarium projections was gorgeous and profoundly soothing.”

Testimonials

“Wah!’s presentation had broad appeal. Many singled her out as their favorite lecture in the series. Vineet Chander, Princeton University/Princeton” ~NJ

“We had a lot of positive feedback from Wah!’s Healing Concert. The combination of healing music and lights was gorgeous and profoundly soothing. Highly recommended... Francisco Salas, Director University of Colorado Fiske Planetarium/Boulder” ~CO

“Wah! integrates science with spirituality, and meditation with music in profound ways – her multi-sensory performances and even her book transmit a message of healing. Her experience as a performer, teacher and author allow her to speak with confidence about both the inner and outer worlds. Wah! emanates a beautiful expression of wholeness. Her gifts are evolving health, consciousness and entertainment!” Dr. Julie Krull, The Dr. Julie Show: All Things Connected, WBLQ AM Talk Radio

“Wah! provided a beautiful ambiance for healing with her concert. The lights and her beautiful sounds were a great addition to our 2014 ANTN National Conference in Atlanta” ~ Rev. Carol Lawson, President, Affiliated New Thought Network ~ Pacific Grove, CA

“Astral lights transform the hall, and you’re quickly swept up in the enchantment of Wah!’s voice. She creates a perfectly complex soundscape of loops, nature sounds and songs that is refreshingly spacious. At some point, when you’re wondering why this is so very different from other concerts, the experience reveals itself. The whole thing really, is about you ~ the you that rarely finds a moment to be with itself. The evening left me speechless. And looking around, I wasn’t the only one. After I floated home in that state, I had the happy realization that the experience was still with me” ~ James Baldwin/Jim’s Post

“Wah!’s Healing Concert creates an environment of relaxation and healing that everyone responds to; audiences are refreshed and transformed by the time they leave. Wah! has an uncanny ability to sing to each audience member—everyone feels the concert was just for them. She is an inspiring, authentic and gifted musician” ~ Center for Conscious Living/Moorestown, ~NJ
